Thomas Miranda, AIA Joins EW Howell Construction Group's Healthcare Division as Project Executive

(New York, N.Y. – July 23, 2018) – EW Howell Construction Group, one of the region's leading education, retail, cultural and healthcare builders, announces the expansion of its Healthcare Division with the addition of Thomas Miranda, AIA, who joins as project executive. Miranda has more than 30 years of experience in the healthcare construction industry.

Miranda spent the last four years as the facilities program coordinator at Stony Brook Medical Center, where he was project manager for the Long Island State Veterans Home, a multi-phase facility rejuvenation initiative. Prior to that, he was the director of projects facilities for North Shore LIJ Health System, managing several in-house projects for six community hospitals and associated facilities in Nassau County.

In his new role, Miranda is responsible for all aspects of a job, including general administration and liaising with the architect and owner. He will oversee and coordinate efforts of the project team, ensuring that the job is properly and adequately staffed and cost-effective. Miranda will also supervise the subcontractor selection process.

Miranda is already overseeing two of EW Howell's healthcare projects on Long Island. They include the renovation of the 23,000-square-foot NYU Langone Huntington Medical Group in Huntington, N.Y., as well as the renovation of the radiation oncology facility as part of a planned addition to the CyberKnife® Center at NYU Winthrop in Mineola, N.Y.

He holds a bachelor's degree in architectural technology from the New York Institute of Technology. Miranda is a registered architect in New York and a member of the Long Island Chapter of the American Institute of Architects. The healthcare construction executive also holds memberships to the Long Island Health Life Safety association, National Fire Protection Association, and the Hospital Engineer Society of Greater New York.

Founded in 1891, EW Howell Construction Group is a leading New York based General Construction and Construction Management firm with offices in Manhattan and on Long Island.
